"I am that Bread of Life" ...John 6:48

*"In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world."
John 16:33*

My Grandmother always would remind us that the pendulum swings out to an extreme before it returns to normal. I sometimes wonder if that is not where we are at right now? As my children were growing up, I watched as the excesses and expectations of materialism seemed to be growing as well. Many of us were trying to give our children things that we never had. I sometimes wondered when or if that would cease. Situations in our world are starting to indicate that it indeed has. Don't misunderstand, I am not predicting gloom and doom, quite the opposite...perhaps we are returning to a healthier normal.

Part of what living in an agricultural area teaches you is that you are dependent on the timely rains of the season, and that we are truly only one season away from famine. The drought stricken areas of our country make us painfully aware of that this year. Rural folks know that the food does not come from the supermarket. Our immediate area was blessed by rain last Sunday, that may have saved our corn and soybeans, but areas of Kansas just to the south are gone...everything that had green left has been chopped for feed.

Being involved in agriculture has constantly reminded me of just how much of life circumstances are out of my control.

As I stood by the window last Sunday, I simply uttered, "Lord, I know that you know".

The clouds started to build from the west late in the day. Some received rain from the front that moved through, some did not. I am convinced of His compassion for us in spite of whether or not the rain falls. Just as Jesus had compassion for the five thousand that found themselves hungry and in a desolate place, so He blesses us and provides for our needs through the good times but especially in those times that cause us to question. Ultimately He cares for us.... and prepares the table of His Love for us.
