January 2011

"You shall not go out with haste...for the Lord will go before you, and the God of Isreal will be yieur rear guard" Isaiah 52:12

And here lying at our doorstep is another New Year. I am feeling a bit apprehensive about welcoming it with the enthusiasm that usually accompanies such a gracious gift. This past year has tested me, as I recount the lessons that I was asked to learn. The bitter sweet part of it all was that He had arrived before me...and I was oblivious to what was going to transpire. As I look back at the last year I know that He was the God of my Yesterdays, allowing the memories to turn the past into spiritual growth for the future. He wants us to remember the past to protect us from the very shallow security of the present. ...And then He becomes our security for Tomorrow..."the Lord will go before you"... such a gracious revelation, and not only that...He will be your rear guard. He will watch so we will not be overwhelmed by your failures, or successes. ...And now we can have Security for today. "You shall go out with haste"...I can step forward with the knowledge that the God of Isreal will go before me. Many of our yesterdays hold brokenness and irreversible things for us. We have lost opportunities that will never return, but God can transform this anxiety into a constructive thoughtfulness for the future. I can let the past rest, but let it rest in the sweet embrace of Christ. Leaving it in His capable hands, I can step confidently into this New Year!
